this is my digital zine 'the things i see when i go outside'

it consists of photos taken around my neighbourhood on daily walks during the lockdown. I've collaged the images in a freeform way, creating double-page spreads in the simple zine fold technique.

fold the page into 8, making sure that the central horizontal fold is a peak. make a horizontal cut along the fold, between the middle two sections. pinch together the two sides, should create a four-pronged shape. fold down into the zine. the front page has the title with the rainbows.

I also have a video for instructions, see below. my printer is running out of ink, hence the wacky colours on my printout (I kinda love it though).

the jpeg is sized for A4 but feel free to print as A3 if you wish.
