'Endangered Migration' Zine Instructions

Print the zine double-sided at 100%. Make sure the two circled panels above are back to back. Alternatively, you can print the two sides on separate pages and glue together.

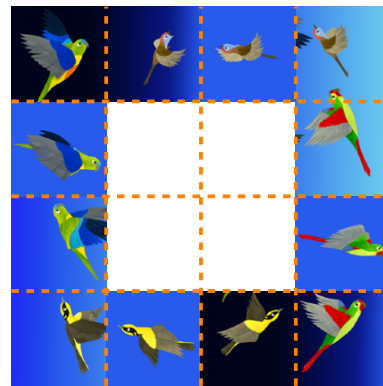

Place the zine in this orientation. Fold the left column to the right.

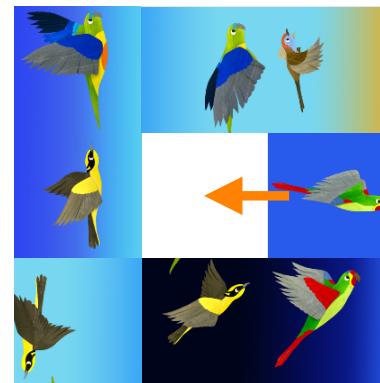

Fold the top row down.

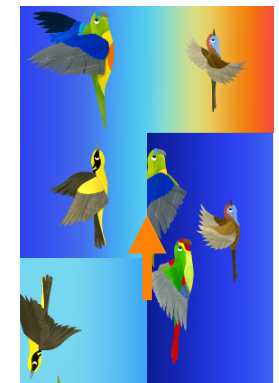

Cut the zine out, by following the marked orange lines above.

Fold the zine in half vertically. Open out and fold the two edges to the centre fold. Unfold and repeat with the horizontal folds. Fold all of the folds in both directions to make it easier to fold and manipulate later. Using the folds as a guide, cut the inner square out with a ruler and scalpel or scissors.

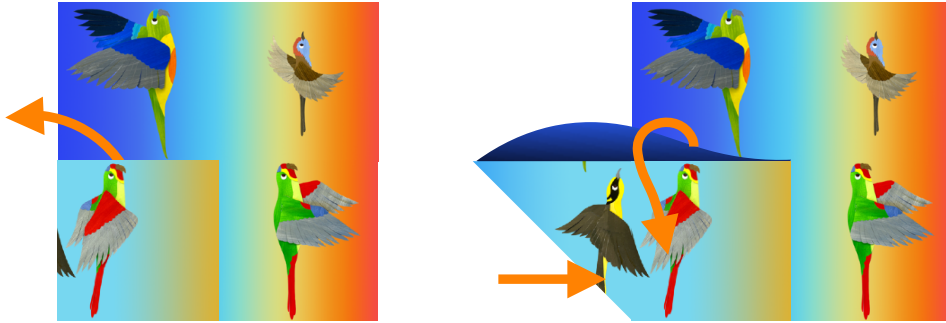

Fold the right column to the left.

Instructions for Turning Pages

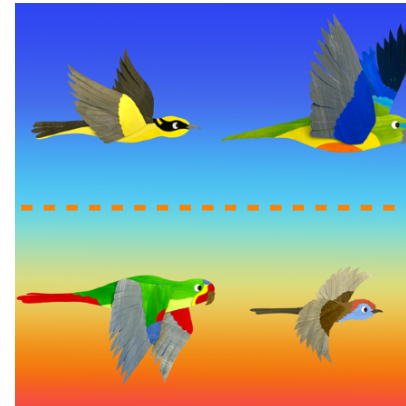

This last step is a bit fiddly. Read all these instructions before attempting it. At the moment, the bottom left panel doesn't match with the design. This panel needs to be turned inside out. Start by unfolding the bottom left panel, while making sure to hold the rest of the panels down. Carefully push the bottom left panel with the Swift Parrot down so it is flat on the table. Then guide the other panels into place.

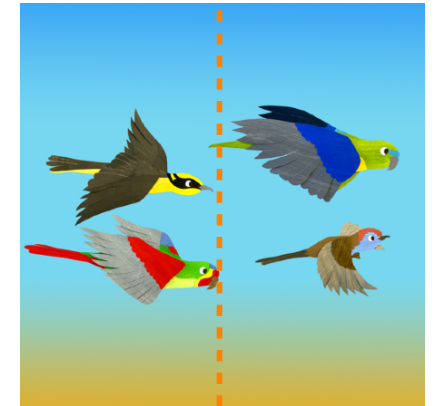

The zine should now look like this.

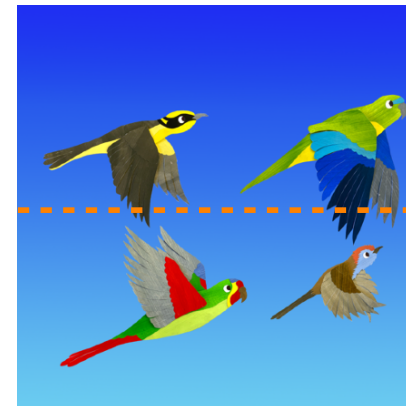

The back will look like this with the same bird species back to back.

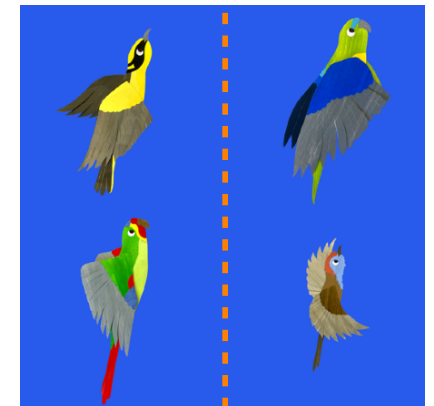

1. Start with the zine like this. Hold the zine in both hands. Fold the zine backwards horizontally. Open the zine again by pulling apart at the fold.

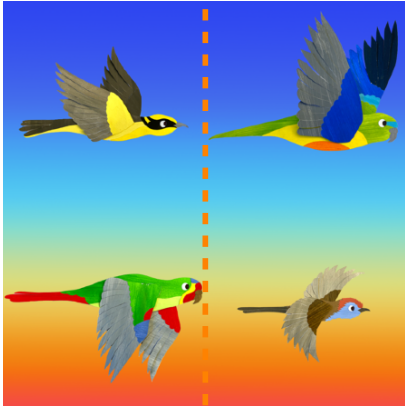

2. Fold the zine vertically away from you. Pull the fold apart again at the fold.

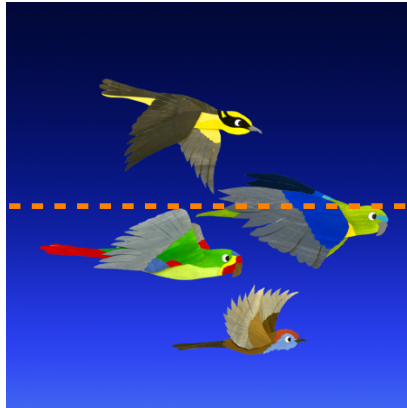

3. Fold horizontally away from you again, and pull apart at the fold.

4. Fold the zine backwards vertically. Open by pulling apart at the fold and you'll be back to the first image.

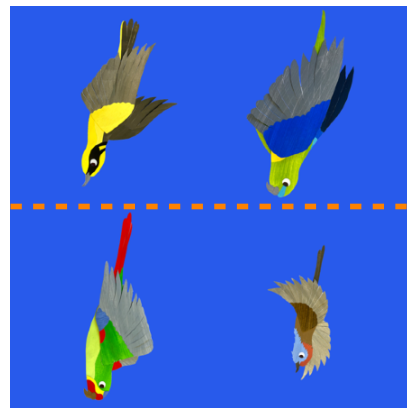

5. This time, instead of folding horizontally, fold the zine vertically away from you. Open again by pulling apart at the fold.

6. Fold away from you horizontally and pull apart at the fold again.

7. Fold vertically and pull apart at the fold.

8. Fold the zine horizontally away from you, and pull apart at the fold. Then you're back to the start!
